Fireboys Turn Coon Hunters

McKINNEY FIREBOYS are not only the best at fighting fires in these parts, but when called on, do many things over and above their duty.

Tuesday morning a coon entered a residence at 1206 Coleman Street. The unwelcome guest upset the household, and to evade capture by the owner, escaped "up a chimney." Chief Walter Cockrell, one of his firemen, and the ladder truck were called to the scene, but were getting nowhere, as the animal would not budge from the chimney. Finally, Woody Rains arrived at the scene, and after an hour and thirty minutes, fished Mr. Coon out with a fish hook. The animal was chained to a post, and will gladly be returned to its owner.

Remember, there is no emergency too big or too little for the McKinney Firemen.

Open Cutting Class Features Horse Show

There will be an Open Cutting Class during the First Annual Quarter Horse Show, sponsored by the Collin County Saddle Association, Saturday, May 21.

The Cutting Horse well deserves the high popularity and favor he has found with the general public. This horse is a Stock Horse worth any man's money, he can earn his keep at home and then go to a contest and put on a splendid and entertaining performance. Performance, regardless of color, sex or breed, is the sole guide to his value; the ability to enter a herd of cattle cut an animal out of the herd and prevent this animal from returning to the herd. Cow sense in his highest degree is shown as this horse anticipates every movement of the animal and does his own thinking and acting with little help from the rider. You will agree, when you see the cutting classes at the show, that there is no wonder the rider has confidence in his cutting horse, because they seldom make a mistake.

Stray Dogs In City Will Be Picked Up

Chief Otho Nitcholas of the McKinney Police Department states that several reports have been turned in concerning stray dogs which are running loose over the city. Many of the dogs do not have tags, and are subject to capture by city officers. Many persons report the animals are ruining flower beds and otherwise creating a disturbance. Several children have also been bitten.

Chief Nitcholas states he does not want to take some child's pet, but urges dog owners to see that their animals are licensed, and to keep them up to this avoid more serious trouble.

New Youth League Planned For City

After a meeting of commissioners of the Pee Wee and City Youth Baseball Leagues at the Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon it was announced that an effort will be made to organize a third baseball loop in McKinney this summer. The new league will be for boys eight and nine years of age and will provide an opportunity for one of the Pee Wee League teams. There are approximately 100 boys in this age group in McKinney who have signified their desire to play. Games are to be played at the Jaycee Recreation Center on Monday nights.

At the same meeting it was decided to raise the player limit in the Pee Wee League to 18 boys per team.

Some $200 will be required to finance the proposed league for eight and nine year old boys and the commission suggested that this amount be raised by public subscription. If this group can be financed it will bring the total number of McKinney boys between the ages of eight and fifteen playing ball this summer to approximately 250.

Those in charge of organization will appreciate subscriptions from individuals or business men who want a part in this project.

► THE CHALLENGE is before McKinney.

The Veterans Administration has offered the citizenship of McKinney the baseball plant, the golf course and the picnic grounds at the VA Hospital, here, for $1.00 per year.

It is estimated that the cost of building such a park would well be over $100,000.00.

Our hardworking Junior Chamber of Commerce under President Emory Davis has again taken the lead with the backing of the City Commission and now the proposition has been put up to the citizenship as a whole.

Volunteers on a committee selected from the civic, veterans' and service clubs of the city are calling on practically every family in the city and community, individually, asking them to join in the new recreation project for a comparatively small sum of money. This sum is for the first year.

After the first year, the project should be self-sustaining or so close to self-sustaining that it will be an easy matter to keep it going with very little financial assistance besides its own income.

The response has been good so far. A committee of local sportsmen of international reputation are working hard planning on the project and assaying its needs.

This is the situation as it now stands.

But, in truth there is more at stake. The spirit of a community is being tested. McKinney along with countless thousands of communities in the United States, today, is "industry" conscious. We want more population, more payrolls, more solid background than we have.

We want it badly and will go all out to get it. But we are going to live and we are going to enjoy life, regardless. We are going to curb or cure juvenile delinquency. We want our sons and daughters to grow up straight and strong in body and in character. We want them engaged in good wholesome things. We are going to get that regardless of what it takes.

Right now, we have a fine Pee Wee Baseball League thanks to the constant efforts of a small group of dedicated people who have never stopped working and working hard.

We have a fine indoor recreation center sponsored by the Jaycees and their indomitable spirit. We have a grand Pee Wee park provided by a wideawake Quarterback Club.

Now, we have the prospect of a lighted baseball field with seats to erase the old but true statement that this is one of the largest cities in America without a regulation baseball park.

We have the prospect of an excellent golf course with maintenance equipment thrown in, easily accessible to the general public at a nominal playing cost — to bring one of the great outdoor exercise sports to the average citizen, including those youngsters in whom we are so interested.

All of this for $1.00 per year and upkeep and maintenance.

It is incomprehensible that the community that drew "rave" write-ups in metropolitan newspapers a thousand miles away for its stoic reaction to that destructive storm seven years ago could back away from a thing like this.

Is the McKinney that crawled out of that wreckage still alive?

Do we still stand up straight on our feet and face the world?

Listen carefully, think deeply when you are approached on this drive.

Lake Lavon Magazine First Publication Off Press June 8

The first issue of the Lake Lavon Sportsman, a monthly publication devoted to activities at North Texas' newest playground, is scheduled to come off the press June 8. Tens of thousands of persons are already visiting Lake Lavon each weekend. The big lake and its 82-mile shoreline have become a regional headquarters for fishing, boating, camping, picnicking and other forms of outdoor relaxation and entertainment.

Columns of the Lake Lavon Sportsman will be devoted to detailed reports of events and activities at the lake, with emphasis on fishing and boating news.

The Sportsman will be published at the offices of the Garland Daily News. Sue Stinson, Daily News staff writer and columnist, will be managing editor, and articles will be contributed by other members of the Garland newspaper staff.

Subscription price for the Sportsman will be $2 a year by mail, Miss Stinson said.

Steady progress has been made in the development of park sites at Lake Lavon and many cottages and cabins have been built near the lake in recent months.

"The Sportsman will bring you progress reports on every project at Lake Lavon and keep you abreast of the many developments and activities," Miss Stinson added. "In addition to the many news and feature stories, there will be pictures of you and your neighbors at play at Lake Lavon."

Collin Districts Refute Findings Research League

According to the findings in Citizens' Advisory Conferences on Education recently held, Collin County citizens do not agree with the Texas Research League concerning the status of the county school district administration and the recommended school district reorganization.

The Texas Research League, at the request of the State Board of Education made a study of education in Texas to see about its effectiveness under the Minimum Foundation School Program. Collin County was one of the thirty-five test counties studied.

In its report to the State Board of Education, the Texas Research League recommended drastic changes in the present school set-up, especially the reorganization of school district structure and administration.

The Research League's report was studied in 21 of the 22 school districts of the county, followed by three county-wide conferences in which approximately 150 school people, trustees, and lay-citizens participated and in which all citizens were invited.

After a thorough study was made, a written report was sent to the State Board of Education revealing the feelings of the people of Collin County pertaining to the Research League's Report.

The constituents of Collin County expressed the belief that school districts should be left intact until the local people, together with the Collin County School Board and the County Superintendent feel reorganization expedient. They also believe that if it proves desirable to reorganize the school district structure for Texas, the framework should be formulated by local personnel with the County School Board and the County Superintendent acting in an advisory capacity.

Collin County citizens feel that the recommendations advanced by the Texas Research League seem practical only for consolidated urban areas where transportation facilities and congested housing conditions lend themselves readily to larger groupings. It appears that the cost entailed in the abandonment of existing plants, the inadequacy of rural roads, and the possible loss of certain intangible values which are fostered in smaller groupings, would far outweigh any values to be contributed by the reorganization proposed by the Texas Research League.

The Texas Research League recommended a change in the method of distributing the State Available School Fund but Collin County citizens want to continue the present method of distributing the funds on the basis of the scholastic census, which has been the foundation of public education in Texas since its beginning.

Other recommendations made to the State Board of Education by Collin Citizens are as follows:

1. State-wide action to meet the need for additional teachers by an increased salary scale an adequate tenure law and improved retirement benefits.

2. Continue financing the construction of school buildings according to the present plan to local basis with participation of the state at the rate of $100 per professional unit.

3. That the Research League has not made a sufficient study of road conditions and population distribution in Collin County.

4. That research conducted in Collin County reveals that pupils have demonstrated a degree of personal and social development far in excess to the national norm and have opportunity to practice leadership roles in many areas of learning while they are in the Collin County Schools.

5. That due to existing factors related to population in Collin County, no "iron-clad" rules be designated in regard to minimum number of scholastic served and minimum number of grades taught by each teacher and that Beautiful inspiring music will be provided by the nationally known Denton Civic Boy Choir under the direction of George Bragg. These small boys who love to sing have been heard by some 22,000,000 people throughout the United States over the facilities of the major television and radio networks.

Since the choir was organized in 1946 by Mr. Bragg, they have filled over 600 major concert appearances. Mr. Bragg's dream will be answered next fall when the choir opens the only boys choir school between the east and west coasts.

The Richardson High School Golden Eagle Band consisting of 75 members will play Martial Music for the service. This band was recently selected to play on the opening night of Cinerama Holiday at the Melba Theatre, and is also known to be the best sight reading band in its class, in the State of Texas.

Although Memorial Day is on Monday, May 30, the major services throughout the Nation will be conducted on Sunday so as to enable more people to pay their respects. Mayor R. L. Thornton of Dallas has officially proclaimed Sunday, the 29th as Memorial Sunday, and urges the residents to attend a Memorial Day service and to place small American flags or flowers on the graves of all veterans wherever they are buried.

Hardin And Hays Join VA Baseball Club

By NORMAN SCOTT

VA Manager Willous Whitaker advises that Jim Hardin, local City Policeman, and veteran professional and semi-pro infielder, has rejoined the VA baseball club and will be in the line-up Thursday night when VA meets Denton here.

Hardin played with the VA club in 1952 and 1953 and was very instrumental in the team's success when VA won the championship of the North Texas League in 1953.

Whitaker also advises that Denny Hays, speedy outfielder from Sam Houston State College, will also join the club for Thursday night's game against Denton. Hays was the club's regular left-fielder last season.

Hardin and Hays are expected to strengthen the club considerably.

CITIZENS' ADVISORY REPORT
Do the experiences you have had in your area indicate that school district reorganization is a problem in your county?

Answer: No. The constituents of Collin County expressed the belief that school districts should be left intact until the local people, together with the Collin County School Board and the County Superintendent, feel reorganization expedient.

If it is considered desirable to reorganize the school district structure in Texas, what plan does your conference propose as an approach to the problem on a state-wide basis?

Answer: If it proves desirable to reorganize the school structure for Texas, we believe the framework should be formulated by local personnel with the County Superintendent and County School Board acting in an advisory capacity.

Based on your experiences, does your conference accept as desirable goals for Texas schools the standards of adequacy cited by the Texas Research League? Are they fair for your area?

Answer: No. The recommendations advanced by the Texas Research League seem practical only for consolidated urban areas where transportation facilities and congested housing conditions lend themselves readily to larger groupings. It appears that the cost entailed in the abandonment of existing plants, the inadequacy of rural roads, and the possible loss of certain intangible values which are fostered in smaller groupings, would far outweigh any values to be contributed by the reorganization proposed by the Texas Research League.

Based on experiences in your area, what would your conference list as the minimum characteristics of a good school district in Texas? Please list as criteria all items you believe should be considered.

Answer: Desirable Pupil-Teacher Ratio: 20:1.

Minimum No. of Scholastics Served and Minimum No. of Grades.

Taught by Each Teacher: Due to existing factors related to population in this county, it is recommended that no "ironclad" rule be designated in regard to minimum number of scholastics served and minimum number of grades taught by each teacher.

Maximum Distance Children Live from School: 10 miles.

Other: Every school should require that each pupil participate in an adequate number of experiences in the area of language arts, social studies, mathematics, science, and health.

Does your conference favor distributing the Available School Fund on the basis of average daily attendance rather than on the scholastic census?

Answer: No. We favor distributing the Available School Fund on the basis of the scholastic census.

What state-wide action does your conference propose that would meet the need for additional teachers?

Answer: We recommend that a practical program for the recruitment of desirable personnel into the teaching profession include:

1. Increased salary scale.
2. Adequate tenure law.
3. Improved retirement benefits.

How do you propose the additional school buildings needed in Texas be financed?

Answer: Continue financing the construction of school buildings according to the present plan of local basis with participation of the State at the rate of $100 per professional unit.

Does the allocation of Foundation Program classroom teacher units on the basis of the prior year's average daily attendance make it difficult for your district to maintain at least a minimum Foundation Program?

Answer: No. But we request a revision of the marked increase formula to liberalize the requirement for the addition of teachers. Please list all specific recommendations or suggestions your conference desires to make regarding the finding of the Texas Research League.

Answer: We feel that the Texas Research League has not made a sufficient study of road conditions and population distribution in Collin County.

In addition to the items in the Study Guide, list other items on the adequacy of local school districts and county structure which your local conference proposes for discussion in the Regional Conference.

Answer: Research conducted in Collin County reveals that pupils have demonstrated a degree of personal and social development far in excess of the national norm and have opportunity to practice leadership roles in many areas of learning while they are in the Collin County Schools.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gumbert of Cottage Hill, were Mr. and Mrs. Dow Kindel and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gwen Harris and Marshall Combest, all of Dallas; Kenneth Combest, of Denton; Mr. and Mrs. Don Woods and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Combest, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Boals and daughter, all of Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Davis, of Prosper, and Mr. and Mrs. O. SCREW-WORM SEASON

Branding, dehorning, castrating and other seasonal livestock jobs may open the way to screw-worm infections unless effective controls are used.

Stockmen are advised to be on the alert for these costly insects and to treat all fresh wounds on livestock, infested or not.

One application of EQ-335 smear should do the job, says C. F. Garner, extension entomologist. Large wounds may require a second treatment. EQ-335 contains lindane which gives a lasting killing effect.

Apply the smear directly to the wound, then put a small ring around the opening.

Screw-worms increase rapidly once present. If headed off from the start, a lot of trouble and needless loss can be avoided.

NEW BULLETIN ON GRAIN STORAGE AVAILABLE
Once farm-stored grain is dried to safe moisture limits, certain practices should be followed to assure quality during storage. This statement keynotes a new bulletin by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The publication, Maintaining Quality of Farm Dried and Stored Grain, makes these recommendations on insuring the quality of stored grain.

1. When drying is completed, reverse the fans to pull air down through the grain.

2. Check the grain temperature at least once a week.

4. Check the moisture of the grain monthly.

4. Aerate as often as is necessary.

5. Check insect activity at least twice monthly and fumigate when required.

6. And, keep records on grain temperature and moisture content. Copies of the bulletins, L-217-Stored Grain Insects may be had for the asking at the County Agent's Office.

SPRING WARM-UP BREAKFAST

Fruit Compote
Hot Cereal with Cream
Crispy Nut Rolls
Butter or Margarine
Hot Beverage

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
1/2 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm or dry)

1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1 egg, beaten

2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup finely chopped pecans
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

1 1/2 cups sugar
Soften yeast in water in large mixing bowl. After yeast has been softened, stir sugar, salt, milk and egg. Add 2 cups flour and beat until smooth. Turn out on generously floured board or pastry cloth.

Sprinkle top of dough with a generous amount of flour and roll out to about 1/4 inch thickness. Divide 1/2 cup butter or margarine into 8 parts. Place 4 of them on middle third of dough. Fold lower third of dough over middle third. Place remaining butter or margarine pieces atop that and cover with the upper third of the dough. Turn lengthwise and roll out. Fold into thirds again. Repeat rolling and folding operation 3 or 4 more times. Roll out into a rectangle about 15 x 13 inches.

Brush with melted butter or margarine. Mix pecans and sugar. Sprinkle about 1/4 of this mixture over pastry. Cut sheet of dough in half and roll up each half like a jelly roll. Cut out in 1 1/2 inch pieces. Place cut side down on shallow pan and chill in refrigerator about 30 minutes. Remove from refrigerator and let stand about 5 minutes. Place remaining pecan and sugar mixture on board or pastry cloth. Roll each piece of dough, cut side down, to about 1/4 inch thickness in pecan and sugar mixture. Turn each piece during rolling to coat both sides. Each roll should be about 4 to 5 inches in diameter. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise slightly in warm place, about 45 minutes. Bake in moderate oven until rolls are nicely browned, about 15 minutes. Makes 20 rolls.

CHIGGER SEASON IS HERE AGAIN
Chiggers can deal even Texans a lot of misery. Although it would not be practical to control the pests all summer, entomologists say that 50 to 75 per cent worth of toxaphene or chlordane will kill the red bug on the average home lawn for about seven days.

Such a scheme is suggested to anyone planning an occasional picnic, party or other out-of-doors activity. Or apply the insecticide to areas where the family sits or plays in the yard.

One pound to five percent dust of either of the insecticides applied to 1,000 square feet of lawn area is recommended by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The dusts are available from most feed, drug and grocery stores.

Sulphur has long been a popular chigger killer but toxaphene and chlordane are more effective.

PROLONG THE LIFE OF YOUR FLOWERS—CONTROL APHIDS AND RED SPIDERS

Two tiny pests which are almost invisible destroy or spoil many of our flowers, according to Sadie Hatfield, Extension Homestead Improvement Specialist.

Red spiders, sometimes called spiders mite are destructive to marigolds, cornflowers, sweep peas and other flowers, as well as to some vegetables. They injure many shrubs and trees.

To check plants for spider damage look for sign of webs. Not all spiders mites make webs but the appearance of the plant will give other clue. Leaves begin to stipple or form light spots and dry up. Watering will not help the plant. Sometimes the tiny red spiders collect in large groups making the underside of the leaf look as if it had rusted.

Red spiders can be killed with a 3 per cent armitate dust or with dusting sulphur. Use the 325-mesh sulphur that is used on cotton. Coarse sulphur will not do the job. Wettable sulphur will also kill the red spider. The sulphur stays on the plant several days, killing new insects which are sure to hatch out within a week or ten days.

Aphids are plant lice also spoil many flowers. In some areas they are called green bugs. They range in color from pink, orange, light green or gray to black. The rose aphid, potato aphid and other aphid feed on tender leaves, stems and buds of roses. They may feed on sap to such an extent that all flowers are spoiled. Some buds may fail to open, and leaves may curl up. Sweet peas and vegetable garden peas infested with aphids are likely to dry up before they produce a full crop of blooms.

Aphids may be killed with one per cent lindane dust or two per cent nicotine dust. Spray of lindane and nicotine sulphate will also kill aphids. Lindane is one of our safe and new sprays. Nicotine sulphate is an old aphid control, sometimes called Black Leaf 40.

Malathion spray is one spray which will kill both these insects. It is also a fairly good control for scales, mealy bugs and other insects. A mixture of wettable sulphur and nicotine in a spray will also kill both red spiders and aphids.

Fannin Farmers Visit Honey Creek Watershed

A group of farmers and land-owners from Fannin County went on a tour of the Honey Creek Watershed Wednesday to see land treatment and flood prevention on the ground.

This group, interested in a watershed program of their own, were shown the effects and benefits that can be derived from a sound soil and water conservation program by Paul Hardin, secretary of the East Fork Association, and J. M. Norton, technician of the Soil Conservation Service at McKinney.

Hardin explained to the group the Flood Prevention Program as it is being carried out by the Soil Conservation District and the part that the local parties must share.

Flood Prevention reservoirs on J. R. Ryan and R. C. Roberts farms were inspected and the benefits were seen in the protected bottom lands below the lakes. Ryan has stated "that he feels he no longer needs the levy that he once thought to important to prevent losing a crop."

Roberts told the group of how well he was pleased with his reservoir and of what benefits he had received. He further explained his irrigation system and its operation.

The group from Fannin County enjoyed the tour and indicated the need for such a program in their district.

UNUSUAL ... Seen About Town

By CAPT. ROY F. HALL

TV antennas are pie for the mocking birds of McKinney. You can see one on at least have the antennas in town, cavorting and singing. Did you know that he mocking bird never repeats a note in a whole day of song? Listen to him sometime, if you doubt this.

Soon be time for the out-of-town tree trimmers to invade the city again. They work for the local telephone and power companies, and, in the past, have not been too careful where they trim trees. If I had my way they would be banned from the city streets forever. Have to watch them. Last year they came in my yard when I was not at home and cut the top from a favorite walnut tree.

Better take a look at your small trees and shrubbery. The bag worm that works on broad-leaf trees is numerous this year. A spray of three tablespoonsful of arsenate of lead to a gallon of water will kill them easily. If you have no sprayer, like me, wet the tree with your hose and blow the arsenate dust on the tree with a dust gun. You will have to be very careful if you do this. The stuff is deadly. Put a wet handkerchief over your nose and keep out of the dust. Keep the kids in the house until the loose stuff drifts away.

Talked to Jason R. Miller from Farmersville Saturday of last week. Jason is thinking of moving to McKinney. Said he would but he hated to add one more Miller to the telephone directory, as there were more Millers in it now than any other names. Wrong, Jason. Here's the dope: Smiths 46; Millers and Williams, 28, and Johnsons 26.

Artie Adamson from Plano offered me a banana a few days ago, with the proposition that if I could eat six of them he would pay for them. No bet. I could do it easily, but why make a show just please that old hillbilly. Artie said one time he went to a picnic with a healthy girl who forgot to take a lunch along. Artie said he starved all day, thinking she had left the buggy. At nine that night he found she didn't have it so he took his lone 25 cents and bought 40 bananas. Riding home, they ate them. Artie swears he ate four, and that was all. The girl ate 36 and looked like she was still hungry.

Saw an Oklahoma car in town this week with one of the Ford placards on the rear window which said, "Made in Oklahoma by Indians." You suppose that's true? Maybe that is what people call themselves from north of Red River, as such a word as Oklahomans would tend to confuse mere TEXANS.

Fireflies, at their best at this time of the year, are almost totally absent. Too dry, the female has to have a damp place to live on the ground. A few monarch butterflies with us, on their way north. They are great travelers, going as far south as Central America in winter. I saw where a man writing in a Dallas paper said a huge swarm of them stayed one night on his big tree, and when they left the next morning not a leaf remained on the tree. Wonder how they did this, as the monarch has no mouth, only a sucking tube? The monarch young are raised as caterpillars on the milkweed, nothing else.

Had an argument with a lady friend over music a while back. We disagreed over everything except one: that was to the effect that the loveliest music we had ever heard was Alma Gluck singing, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." Get out your record on this and see what you think.
